Duty is also often perceived as something owed to one's country (patriotism), or to one's homeland or community. Civic duties could include: Obey the law; Pay taxes; Provide for a common defense, should the need arise; Enroll to vote, and vote at all elections and referenda (unless there is a reasonable excuse such as a religious objection, being overseas, or illness on polling day)

In economics, a duty is a kind of tax levied by a state. It is often associated with customs, in which context they are also known as tariffs or dues. The term is often used to describe a tax on certain items purchased abroad. Properly, a duty differs from a tax in being levied on specific commodities, financial transactions, estates, etc. rather than on individuals.
